Ideas that will make Christmas easier for you

Gifts for dog-lovers

Christmas is coming, it's a time for peace, love, brotherliness, good wishes and presents. Presents that can become a heavy burden, run all these good vibes and Christmas Spirit, and turn us into an improved version of the Grinch when we come across that person who is so hard to give a present to. But don't worry in advance. If this person is a dog-lover, here you'll find some ideas that will help you to succeed and give an unforgettable gift.

Designer dog bowls can be a good option to give to that friend who loves his dog as much as interior decorating. "Luca", designed by Miriam Mirri for Alessi, is non-slip and has a lid, or "Lupita", by the same designer, has a bone-shaped handle. Both can fit wonderfully in any house, and besides they are quite practical for everyday use.

Dog-lovers are sure to take long walks with their pets, and sometimes it's difficult to provide them with drinking water while they are out. It's important to prevent our furry friends from getting dehydrated, and this portable water dispenser will come in very handy. It's beautiful, useful and easy to bring with you, as it has a clip that can be attached wherever you need, you just have to flip the bottle open and give your dog a quick drink.

If you prefer a sentimental gesture to the practical side of present-giving, you can offer the dog-lovers a silver print of their best friend's nose, paw or body part, to wear as a pendant. These unique necklaces, devised by Jackie Kaufman, are made of silver, they require us to take a mold of the dog's nose print and send it to the jeweler.
